EVERYBODY SING

In what is a unique singing contest, “Everybody Sing” has the inspiring goal of uniting community groups through music, whether those in the same job, or those with the same hobbies or life experiences. A series of entertaining musical challenges give the contestants the chance to win big money prizes and bond as they and the audience have fun.

The show is anchored by a charming and witty host, who draws viewers into the fascinating world of the contestants, ranging from nurses, firefighters and flight attendants to athletes and adventurers. As they participate in the challenges, the presenter engages with the competitors to reveal their inspirational stories.

The format brings together 50 contestants with the same profession or shared experiences, who are sat in five rows in a studio set up in the form of an amphitheater. The music is provided by a live orchestra or group who perform a series of songs to challenge their musical knowledge and talent.

In each stage of the show, contestants descend to the stage in groups of 10 with the goal of earning money and vital seconds that will be crucial for the team when it comes to winning the final jackpot. The first group must fill in the blanks as the orchestra performs a song and halts suddenly, leaving the constants to complete the line and earn seconds for the team.

In the next three stages, the groups of 10 contestants are faced with a large screen on which they must use pictorial clues to fill the gaps, then guess the lyrics from just the first letters of the missing words and finally decide which of two lyrics options is the correct one for that song.

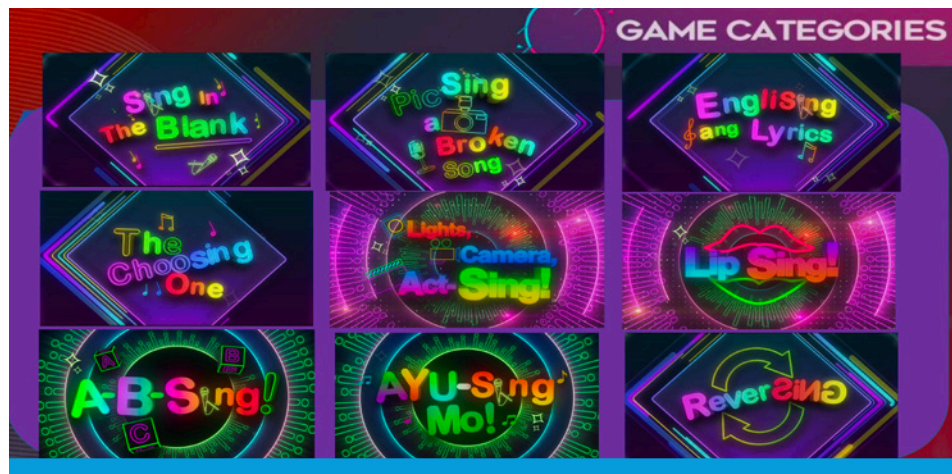

EVERYBODY SING

In the fifth stage of the show, the orchestra sings the lyrics of a song in the wrong order and the contestants must put them in the correct order. This is followed by a 'five seconds challenge', in which the community group chooses a representative who will have to guess the name of the song hummed by the presenter.

Finally comes the jackpot stage, in which the contestants will be able to use all the seconds they have accrued during the show to name ten songs whose melodies will be played to them by the orchestra. If the contestants name all the songs, they win a big money jackpot to be shared by all those taking part.

"Everybody Sing" is a joyous celebration of music and its power to bring people together, as well as a showcase for the inspiring work and interests of the community groups within our societies. It is also show packed with entertainment for audiences that will delight in sharing the experience of the contestants.
