UPRISING KITCHEN

A first-class chef, a housewife, and a novice compete to produce the best dish in the intriguing and entertaining cooking show “Uprising Kitchen”, in which experienced cooks face unique challenges to even out the contest. The format treats viewers to a cooking battle packed with fun, frustrations and ingenuity.

The three contestants are set the task of preparing a dish based on a shared theme, but their cooking expertise is reflected in their hugely contrasting budgets. While the amateur cook has $100 to spend on ingredients and the housewife has $20, the professional chef will have to make do with just $5!

Viewers are fascinated to see how much of a role money plays in the quality of the dishes they produce. Can the professional work magic with so little cash? Will the amateur’s riches win the day or does the housewife’s experience in the kitchen make the difference? They still face a series of further fascinating challenges that may determine the outcome of the contest.

The amateur has a large kitchen area in which to prepare their food, while the professional chef must make do with just a tiny counter, and the housewife has a medium-sized area. The novice will also have many more utensils to work with, while the chef struggles with only a few, testing their experience and ingenuity to the limit.

But there is another twist to spice up the contest. A unique lottery machine is located center stage between their workspaces. Air is pumped into the machine, sending challenge cards swirling around. Contestants stick a hand inside to grab a card with a message to make their rivals' tasks harder or their own task easier.

A contestant may face the disadvantage of spending three minutes cooking using a pair of one-meter-long chopsticks or some other bizarre utensil. A card may also give a contestant the advantage of making a phone call to a friend for guidance or seeking the help of a jury member. But the master chef cannot pick a lottery card at all!

In a race against time, the contestants battle to produce the best dish they can. Their creation is then placed before a panel of judges. These gourmet experts give their verdicts on the culinary efforts, providing valuable feedback and deciding who has created the best dish, bringing joy or disappointment to the contestants.

"Uprising Kitchen" gives inspiration, not just to the contestants who must create appetizing dishes, but also to viewers who will think afresh about how they prepare meals at home. The audience will also get to know the contestants as they engage with the host, picking the favorite who they want to see win out in this unique culinary contest.
