KNOW IT OR FACE IT

In order to get through a round, they need to answer the question correctly, or, complete the physical challenge. If they succeed, that round's prize money is theirs.

Each step has a corresponding money prize amount, all the way up to the grand prize of $100,000.

Through ten rounds, the couple divides the tasks: one partner answers quiz questions, the other does the challenges. If they answer the question incorrectly, they have to do the challenge and on the next round they switch places.

If they answer incorrectly and don't accept the challenge, they will be eliminated from the show with empty hand.

KNOW IT OR FACE IT

FIRST FIVE ROUNDS:

For the first five rounds, as the prize money keeps going up, the couple needs to choose between two possible answers for each question.

If they answer incorrectly, they must take the challenge. No matter what happens, they move to the next round.

If they failed in both question and challenge, they still move to the next round but without the prize money.

Whatever amount of money they gain after five rounds is their insurance amount; they're guaranteed this prize money no matter what happens – as long as they always accept the challenge.

If they don't answer the questions correctly or complete the challenge successfully, they will remain in the game. One of them will have to complete the challenge while the other watches in suspense.

SECOND FIVE ROUNDS:

From round six, the couple needs to either answer the question right from three possible answers or complete the physical challenge. If they don't, they are eliminated, with no chance at the big Grand Prize.

If they answer incorrectly and don't accept challenge, they will leave the show with empty hand.

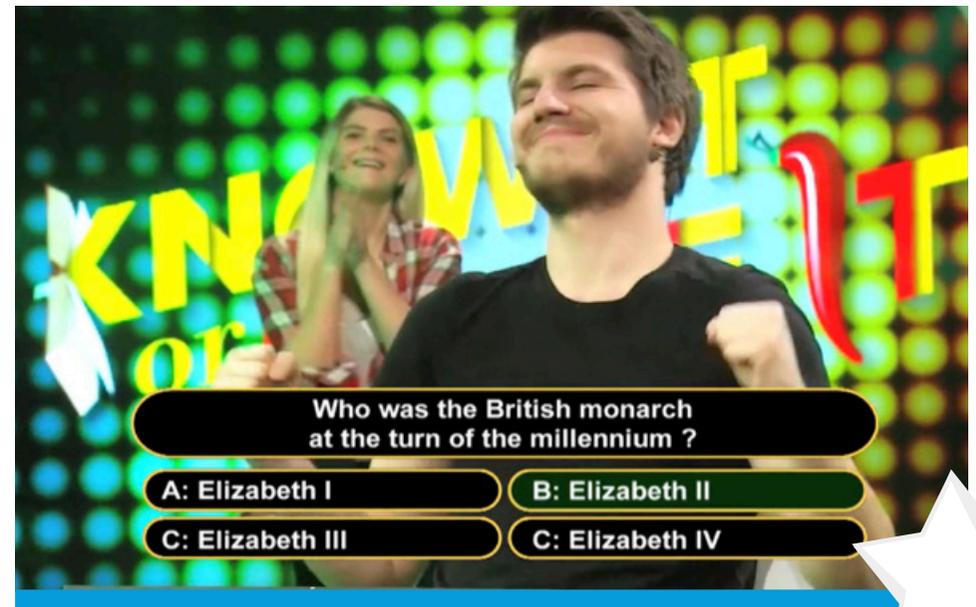

ROUND TEN: If they make it to round ten, the couple will first have to complete a physical challenge together and, upon successful completion, will have to answer the final question from a possible four answers on the board.

If the time allocated for the show ends during the questions/challenges, the couple will return to resume the game in the next Show.
